Kondar et al.: Yes, orig. in Chap 3, and in Chap 7, under Immature Stages...the point being made in the two places and therefore redundant. It remains in Chap 7

I will check with SETAC/Wiley to see if it should be put back in.

Ladurner et al.: This section was removed, it seemed to be (i) a policy recommendation that was out of place; and, (ii) surpurfluous to put a second party recommendation in the proceedings from a conference of international experts meeting on this very subject.

Laurent and Rathahao, 2003: this reference should be added to Chap. 7, sec. "Exposure at immature stages of non-Apis species" p. 74-75 to where this information (regarding "direct contact with the pollen") was moved.

- Shuler et al., 2005

Quezada Euan, 2009: ok, in Table 3-1, in the cell for Melipona beecheii, the last ref. will be changed from: "Quezada Euán & José Javier 2009" to "Quezada Euán 2009"

Sampson et al., 2007: moved to Chap. 7, sec. "Foraging Time and Mating"

Shuler et al. 2005: moved to Chap. 7 and Chap 13. In Chap. 7, see sec. "Nesting sites and nesting materials for non-Apis species" ... the reference in Chap. 7 is not as specific as in the original Chap 3 (i.e., identifying squash bees in pumpkin and squash fields). Citation is verbatim in Chap. 13, in sec. "Suggested Techniques to Mitigate Risks to Other Species of Bees"

Tase1, 2002; not found in original (Commented [MV3]: It is in there. Looks good.

Taséi et al. 1988: originally in Table 1., now in Table 8-2. (need to 2x check ref.)

Tasei et al. 2001 is now in Table 10 -5, p. 228

Tew, 1997: remains in the references and needs to be moved to the references of

- Waller, 1969
- Winston, 1987

Chapter 7, the citation, slightly modified is now in Chap. 7 ... p. 75.

Thompson, 2001: This reference needs to be included in Chap. 8, section entitled "Adult Toxicity Testing with non-Apis Bees" The second sentence of that section begins with, "Data currently available suggest... taken into account." ... please replace that sentence with the following text:

"Lower tier toxicity tests (e.g. acute toxicity tests conducted in the laboratory) are somewhat limited, but comparative toxicities between A. mellifera and Bombus spp. have been reviewed by several authors (Thompson 2001, van der Steen et al. 2008). Comparison has been made both on a dose per bee level and a dose per gram of bee (factoring in the larger size of the bumble bee). The broad conclusions are that there is no consistent correlation between the toxicity for Apis and Bombus workers, but the general trends suggest that the toxicity to bumble bees is less on a per bee basis and similar on a per gram of bee basis."

The rest of that following sentence in that section begins with "This conclusion is based on analysis ..." this sentence and the rest of that paragraph should remain as is. Please include the following reference to Chap. 8 to accompany this new citation in this chapter. Thompson HM, Hunt LV. 1999. Extrapolating from honeybees to bumblebees in pesticide risk assessment.

Ecotoxicology, 8:147–166.

Commented [MV4]: Taken care of!!

Tuell and Isaacs, 2010: this citation can be inserted at the end of the second sentence of the section entitled "Conclusions" of Chap. 3. Vaissière et al., 1985: I cannot loca Commented [MV5]: Was included as a reference about mellisodes species nesting below cotton plants. Now in chap 7. reference in the old doc., please remove.

Valdovinos-Núñez et al., 2009: This reference, along with the others in the sentence that discusses recommendations for specific non-A testing will be reworded... once it has, the appropriate citations should be included in the text and in the reference section. Mace and I will revise this text to be included in Chap. 3: Origianal text to be revised: "They have recommended that testing include at least one solitary managed species, such as the wood-nesting alfalfa leafcutting bees (Megachile rotundata) or the blue orchard bees (Osmia lignaria) (Abbott et al. 2008, Ladurner et al. 2008), and one managed social non-Apis bee, such as bumble bees (e.g., Bombus impatiens or B. terrestris) in temperate climates (Thompson and Hunt 1999) and/or the highly social stingless bees (e.g., Melipona spp. or Trigona spp.) in the tropics (Valdovinos-Núñez et al. 2009)."
